THIEVES PAY VISIT TO EUREKA HEIGHTS

P. E. Knight, more commonly known as Bud O. Bowen, reported to the police last evening that some time during Monday night a prowler broke the padlock on his door at his place at Eureka Heights and gained entrance, stealing several valuable articles.

Mr. Bowen, or Knight, alleges that a brown overcoat, a pair of hair clipper, a pair of pocket squares, a pair of heavy solid brown shoes and an 18-carat gold ring are missing. He asserts that the amount of goods taken would total thirty-one dollars.

MORE SELECTS WILL LEAVE ON THURSDAY

From the appearance of local conditions it looks as if Uncle Sam is getting the men in training very rapidly to serve in France. Tuesday forty-one selects left for Hattisburg, Miss., and Thursday afternoon a number will leave to enter training at Jackson Barracks, New Orleans, La. The men are to report at the postoffice at four o'clock Thursday afternoon and leave for New Orleans over the St. Paul road at 5:42. From the following list will be chosen thirteen men who will go: Edward Dahl, Carl Olson, Helmer M. Burkum, Harry Elmo Talbot, Frank Learna, Louis Olson, Arthur D. Schorr, Archie L. McKinnon, Leslie J. Bennett, Ferdinand W. Krause, Irwin Schulz, James J. Thompson, Howard Clithero, Edwin Vogel, Alex. Hay, Lyle Dix, Edward Remush, Frederick C. Kellogg, and Edwin Erickson.

TEACHER ENTITLED TO RECEIVE THE PAY

In consequence of the general closing of the schools some questions arise that are of direct interest to some 16,000 teachers and 21,000 school officers in the state. The following rules are given by the state office in order that the rights of the parties in interest may be understood and correspondence with county superintendents and other officers and discussions among school officers and teachers may be avoided.

"Unless there is some provision to the contrary in the written or verbal contract entered into between the teacher and the school board, the teacher if at all times ready to render the services as agreed is entitled to pay the same as she would be if the school had not been closed.

"If a verbal contract is as binding as a written one.

"It is not necessary that the time during which school is closed be caused by the prevalence of an epidemic. It is sufficient if the closing is for additional days at the close of the agreed term. If additional days are entered into a new agreement should be entered into between the teacher and the school board.

"The time during which school is closed is also counted as days taught in favor of the teacher. This means that if the law demands that school shall be maintained for the agreed number of days (180 or 180) in order to share in the regular appropriation of special state aids the days school was closed because of the epidemic will be counted as part of the required time. The clerk of the district board must make a clear and verified statement in his report to the county superintendent at the close of the school year showing the number of days the school was closed and the cause.

"This report will be transmitted by the county superintendent to the state superintendent and will be the basis for granting the usual appropriations and special aids.

"It is not necessary for the teacher to remain in the district, village or city where she is teaching in order that she may be able to be required to remain and perform some other work incidental to the teaching, such as cataloging library books, etc.

"When the danger of the epidemic has apparently passed the school officers and the local board of health should confer for the purpose of fixing a date when the schools may be opened. It then becomes the duty of the school board to immediately notify the teacher of the date of opening in order that she may be prepared to take up her work at the time fixed.

"The state board of health will issue an order to the local health authorities as soon as it appears that danger from this epidemic is past. This order, however, is not likely to be general but will apply to those localities where it seems that the disease has abated sufficiently to warrant in opening the schools.

NEW FORD DAMAGED BY A TOURING CAR
A new Ford sedan owned by Robert Buggs was badly damaged last evening when a touring car driven by William Sommerfeldt backed into it on South River street. The new car was standing on the street when Mr. Sommerfeldt started to back his car in order to get out from the curb. There was a large piece of ice in the touring car and it crashed through the windshield. Mr. Buggs stated this morning that he could not give an estimate of the damage as yet.

GOLDEN WEDDING IS CELEBRATED TUESDAY

A pleasant family gathering was held on yesterday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Clark, 1400 Milwaukee avenue, when the golden wedding anniversary of the couple was celebrated. It was in the nature of a surprise party planned by the children and included only the close relatives of the family.

About 23 guests sat down to the bountiful supper, which was served at five o'clock, the table being decorated with beautiful chrysanthemums and place cards made by a little granddaughter. Decorations of dahlias which had been carefully preserved from the first for the occasion, were used in the other rooms, and were much admired.

The four children of the couple were present. They were, Mrs. W. Haight, Mrs. May Beaton, John Clark and Miss Jean Clark.

The three brothers of Robert Clark were of the company. They were William, David and Thomas, all residing in or near the city. A sister, Mrs. Younglaus and sister in law, Mrs. Agnes Clark and Mrs. Margaret Clark and Mrs. Margaret Barlass were also present.

Flowers were sent in by relatives and friends, and a beautiful reading lamp given by the children will serve as a memento of the happy occasion. Both Mr. and Mrs. Clark were pioneer residents of the county, being brought up in the town of Harmony where they lived at the time they were married. Mrs. Clark was the daughter of Andrew Barlass, and they went to housekeeping on a farm near the other members of the family. Later they retired and moved to town, where they have since lived in their cozy home on Milwaukee avenue.

The good wishes of many relatives and friends was tendered to them on this pleasant anniversary occasion, which was so thoroughly enjoyed on yesterday, and many old residents who have known Mr. and Mrs. Clark for many years will join with them in wishes for many years of future happiness.

CHICAGO MARKETS.

Chicago, Oct. 23. — Packers supporting the hog market at the bottom of the decline but confined their operations to good hogs selling at $17.25@17.75, causing a 25c advance. On the first round $17.50 took the best, but response anything over 180 lbs. selling up to $17.75. Packing hogs were as unpopular as ever, and were not wanted at $15@15.25.

Cut-up receipts were seasonal but it was mainly a package of trash, beef being scarce. Prices were strong to 25c higher, many steers being $1 above the low point last week.

Live muttons were 25¢50c higher, feeder grades showing most of the advance. Colorado and the Scotts Bluff people in Nebraska have gone into Montana and Wyoming to buy lambs, diverting the movement from Chicago and Omaha.

Western beef is practically all in. A run of light cattle from the trans-Missouri region will furnish a big cash during the next thirty days, but the big outfits have finished their round-up and the far end of the movement will furnish little army contract material.

Avail Conference Today.
Unusual interest attaches to the conference at Washington today between packers, hog growers and federal administration officials concerning the November price of hogs.

Packers will urge a $16 basis for November, as it is evident that the country is determined to unite the surplus of the crop during the next two months. As the present policy has failed to stabilize the market, most people in the trade are anxious for a return to last season's conditions, merely retaining the $15.50 minimum.

Cattle Feeders Bidding.
A run of 20,000 cattle was mainly western and native butcher stuff. Feeders were in the market paying prices that looked $1 per cwt. higher than last week. No choice cattle traded but $19.50 was quoted for the right kind $18.55 taking the best available.

Choice to prime steers $18.50@19.50; good to choice steers 16.50@18.50; medium to good steers 14.25@16.50; fair to medium steers 11.50@14.50; common to fair steers 8.50@11.50; stockers and feeders 7.50@12.40; good to choice cows 8.75@12.00; fair to good cows 7.75@8.75; canners and cutters 5.85@7.00; fat and bologna butts 7.00@10.75; good to choice calves 15.00@16.25.

Hog receipts were 33,000, and the state stock 7,400. Opening prices were steady with the bad Monday close, but a 25c higher spot occurred the middle choice hogs selling at $17.50@17.75 but packing and mixed grades did not benefit, and the carry-over was heavy.

Good to choice mediums $17.50@17.75; choice hams 17.25@17.75; good to choice heavy 17.40@17.75; good to prime mixed 16.25@17.00; fair to good mixed 16.75@16.25; good medium packing 16.25@15.75; fair to good heavy packing 14.75@15.50.

Feeding Lambs Higher.
Only 15,000 sheep and lambs arrived, prices being 25¢50c higher. Feeding lambs at $14 were the $12 kind last week. Sheep showed least of the advances, packers being able to get along with little heavy mutton.

Good to choice lambs 15.75@16.25; fair to good lambs 15.00@15.75; common to fair lambs 13.50@15.00; good to choice ewes 9.25@10.25; feeding lambs 13.00@14.50; good to choice wethers 10.50@11.10; feeding sheep 8.50@10.50; breeding ewes 12.00@16.50.

Danger Has Been Passed.

Yesterday's survey of the influenza epidemic in this city, made by the Chamber of Commerce for the Health Officer, Dr. S. B. Buckmaster, brought to light the fact that within the past two days the disease is again on the increase—a number of pneumonia cases also have developed. The total number of cases being treated by physicians yesterday was 576 and new cases for the day numbered 53. These figures are compiled from direct reports from the physicians.

Requested to comment on the situation several physicians attending a large number of cases said that the epidemic was on the decline but that since Sunday it had steadily increased and that this was especially true in the rural districts.

As a result of this apparent new outbreak, according to the health officer, the present ban on public meetings and gatherings of all kinds, will continue to be in force until the epidemic has been completely passed.

The health officer insists that persons shall not congregate in any place no matter what its character and that churches will be forbidden to continue until all danger is passed.

do not tramp into a house, bearing on their footwear all the miscellaneous

WHO'S WHO in the Day's News

SAMUEL GOMPERS.
Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor and vice-chairman of the League for National Unity, has had a great reception in England, and has done much to hold the British labor leaders in line for the uninterrupted prosecution of the war. In England he is working on his native soil, for he was born in that country fifty-eight years ago. Gompers learned the trade of a cigar maker and since he was fifteen years of age has been an advocate of the rights of labor. With only one year's intermission he has been president of the A. F. of L. for thirty-one years. He has written a number of pamphlets on the labor question, and one book, "Labor in America and Europe." He is a member of the advisory committee of the Council of National Defense.

"I have seen ten men alone in death, as you call it," he said quietly. "One of them lies here. He was a young Englishman, and I had taken a fancy to him—heaven knows why, for our races do not love each other nowadays. There was a forced march—a trek of our good colonels—and he collapsed out in the desert. We left him there without food or ammunition. You understand—I was his friend. Three days later I got permission to look for his bones. I found them and a few rings of his uniform. There are hyenas on the desert, you know, and they make short work of things. Well, I brought what was left—here."

Richard Nameless took a step nearer, as though to look closer into the German's seared features.

"Who are you?" he asked significantly.

"My name is Goetz von Berleichen," was the mock pompous answer. "If you knew anything about Goethe, which, being an Englishman, you don't, you would know that Goetz von Berleichen was a robber-knight. I told you. It was my birthright. Then one day I killed—justly, as I believe, but neither according to the law of my country nor my caste. And then I lost my birthright—forever." Richard Nameless drew a step nearer. The two features turned to the falling light in stern, implacable self-judgment, had awakened awe and pity and a vague, shapeless recollection.

"He passed on," instinctively Richard Nameless drew himself up to a salute. It was answered with grave courtesy. For a moment the mantle of evil had slipped from their shoulders, and man faced man in honorable recognition of

Fills Stomach With New Energy

Weak, Worn Out, Gassy, Sour Stomach Revived and Made to Enjoy Food With Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets.

Most of us eat three times a day and often forget that each meal should be digested in the stomach to make room for the next. The failure of the stomach to do this is called indigestion or dyspepsia, with its sour flatus, gas, rumblings, pain, depression and the feeling of stuffiness when breathing is difficult.

The most effective remedy and the most reliable one, because you can get it at any drug store in the United States or Canada, is Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets. At 50 cents a box, instead of depriving yourself of food or going on a starvation diet, simply keep on as you have and let these tablets straighten out your stomach, digest the food and keep you in the light.

QUICK RELIEF FROM CONSTIPATION

Get Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

That is the joyful cry of thousands since Dr. Edwards produced Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel. Dr. Edwards, a practicing physician for 17 years and calomel's old-time enemy, discovered the formula for Olive Tablets while treating patients for chronic constipation and torpid livers.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets do not contain calomel, but a healing, soothing vegetable laxative.

No gripping is the "keynote" of these little sugar-coated, olive-colored tablets. They cause the bowels and liver to act normally. They never force them to unnatural action.

If you have a dark brown mouth—a bad breath—a dull tired feeling—a sick headache—torpid liver and are constipated, you'll find quick, sure and only pleasant results from one or two little Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets at bedtime. Thousands take one or two every night just to keep right. Try them. 10c and 25c per box. All druggists.

GREATEST DANGER FOLLOWS GRIP

Weakened Victims Fall Easy Prey To Other Diseases

The setting-sun stage of grip, pneumonia or other illness is the most dangerous of all because the body, weakened by the disease, is wide open to attacks of other lurking germs.

That is why all the organs of the body must be kept in their best working order, not only to drive out the poison left by the disease, but that the patient shall retain strength as soon as possible to avoid further attacks resulting from the poisons in the system.

As a means toward good health after any illness, Father John's Medicine builds up the body because it is all pure, wholesome nourishment and free from opium, morphine, chloroform or other poisonous drugs or alcohol. Father John's Medicine has had sixty years' success for colds and throat troubles, roughs and sore throats, and as a tonic and body builder.

PROOF:—

"After an attack of pneumonia the doctor ordered me to give my baby Father John's Medicine and as a result he regained health and strength. I always give it to my children whenever they catch cold. I am writing this to tell you how grateful I am to Father John's Medicine." (Signed) Mrs. Geo. Hunsberger, 1054 Pike St., Reading, Pa. Because of its blood-building, strength-giving food value, Father John's Medicine is an ideal family medicine for all who are weak and run-down.

PETEY DINK—PETEY MIGHT HAVE KNOWN HIS WIFE WOULD SEE TO THAT.

what had been. Then the slight, soldierly figure lost itself among the shadowy crosses.

Richard Nameless turned back to the desert. The Arabs had risen and an elder was praying aloud, his aged, tremulous voice leading the richer nation of the worshippers behind him.

"With my face to Mecca and with a sincere heart I offer my prayers to Allah—"

Miracle! For those dark-faced desert children Mecca opened the gates of Paradise; for this dream of unknown happiness they waited and prayed, and when their time came passed through the great shadow with fearless, triumphant confidence.

He went back to his work. With fierce, dogged energy he pulled away the deep-rooted weeds and brought a pathetic look of care and order into his corner of the wilderness. For a moment he lingered over the grave which Goetz had tended. The bald yet eloquent inscription touched him. He wondered vaguely who Philip Grey had been; if he, too, had paid a price and in the last hours of horror had still been satisfied.

Two women had entered the cemetery. Their white-clad figures flashed gayly in between the dark graves, and a clear, silvery laugh mingled with the final Arab prayer—

"La ilaha illa 'llahu!"

The younger woman stopped an instant and pointed with the tip of her parasol at the broken remnant of a cross.

"Look at these beads! Aren't they ridiculous? And the inscription—just a number, like a convict's." She glanced back over her shoulder at her companion. "Miss Smith, I believe you are frightened. Do you think there are ghosts here? Well, perhaps there are, but I don't mind."

As yet the man standing immobile, hidden amid the forest of crosses, had escaped her notice. But he had heard her now, and shadowy and ghostlike enough in the dying light, awaited her approach. At the foot of the Englishman's grave she hesitated. The inscription makes me frightened. But I was told it was something I ought to see—and a few minutes ago I wasn't frightened at all. Now—I see ghosts everywhere."

"I am one of them," he said. "She brushed her hand over her forehead as though indeed trying to dispel some terrifying specter. Her feeble effort to regain her previous laughing courage failed. She was white and trembling."

"I am No. 4005 of the Foreign Legion," he said. "Is there anything else that you need understand?"

"Yes—I must. I feel as though one of us two were mad. The Foreign Legion is just the last resort for all the riffraff of the world—criminals, gamblers, cheats—"

"I am one of them," he said. "She was silent a moment, looking at him with large, thoughtful eyes, out of which the fear had passed. When she spoke again her voice was full of a smothered tenderness."

"I have thought of you so much lately, Richard. I couldn't understand why it was. You haunted me. It was as though something in the place made me think of you. I remembered all your little movements, the way you looked, I seemed to see you in others. I grew almost—how shall I say?—homesick for you."

"You should have forgotten," he interrupted roughly. "I have gone out of your life. Look upon me now as what I am now—a mere shadow."

"Richard, what have you done?" The tenderness had deepened. He clenched his hands in a movement of uncontrollable pain.

"Hush! your husband told you?"

"No. We never mention your name. To me it is sacred."

"For God's sake, Sylvia—!" He straightened up, his black brows marking a straight line across his face. "I was turned out of the army for betraying my country's secrets."

"You—a traitor! Why?"

"The moneyable was like the stab of a knife in the silence."

"For a woman!"

She drew back. Her eyes were dark pools in which he saw no expression.

"What woman?"

He bowed gravely.

"Madame Arnaud. I have still honor enough left to remember the discretion imposed upon honorable men."

She turned away from him. He could see nothing but her profile, the exquisite, almost flawless profile, cut against a background of mingled gold and emerald. Her hands rested crossed on the handle of her parasol. She had grown suddenly very calm and deliberate.

"I told you that I had thought of you, Richard," she said quietly. "I did not tell you how I thought of you. Do you remember our last meeting, or has that been eclipsed by other more lovely memories?"

"Silvia, be silent! I dare not listen to you. You don't know what you are saying—"

"I know what I am saying, and you must listen. When a man destroys something, it is no more than just that he should see what he has done. You have destroyed something—an ideal, a dream, my faith in honesty and goodness. You were the one man I believed and trusted. And now you are like the rest—nothing—nothing." She turned away. "I wish to God I had not met you, Richard."

He did not attempt to detain her. He stood there like a man struck to death by a treacherous blow, and she went on down the path to the gate where her companion waited for her. There she paused for a moment.

"I want you to go back to that man," she said carelessly. "He is an old acquaintance who went wrong, and it might be rather unpleasant for my husband if he knew I had been so unfaithful. Tell him."

him that on no account must he speak to me again. It is very regrettable, but mistakes of that sort bring their own punishment. You understand, Miss Smith?"

"Yes, Madame Arnaud."

"Thank you. I will wait for you outside the public cemetery. It is getting dark—"

Miss Smith went slowly back along the narrow gravel path. The man had not moved. He was gazing out at the fiery waste now dying beneath the extinguishing mantle of the night, and neither heard nor saw. She touched him on the arm.

"Mr. Farquhar?"

He turned slowly and stared at her. Though he recognized her, his face was blank and hard and terrible.

"Miss Smith?"

"Yes, Gabrielle Smith. You see, after all, we have met again. Won't you shake hands?"

His eyes wandered past her down the path.

"No. You ought not to be speaking to me. A respectable woman does not speak to a common soldier of the Legion."

"Doesn't she? How interesting! One is always learning in this wonderful civilization of ours. Only as it happens I am not respectable. I told you that once before."

Her cool irony brought a flash of insane laughter to his eyes.

"Who the devil are you, then?" he asked savagely.

"Dear me, you have quite lost your nice English indifference. Mr. Farquhar, I'm not sure it isn't an improvement. Who I am? Well, you know my name, and at the present moment I am companion to Madame Arnaud—helping her to forget that she isn't English any more. English people think it's wrong to admire foreigners. It's their idea of patriotism. Madame Arnaud assures me she must have a bit of dear old England about her, and I am the bit. That's all."

"Why did you come?"

He was looking at her again. Through the dusk she saw the white, tortured suspense on the hard face. She wore a rose in the severe corsage of her dress. She took it and handed it to him.

"She sent you this—in token of remembrance."

He took her hand and kissed it.

"You have come like an angel into my life," he said.

He watched her until her small, energetic figure had disappeared among the shadows.

In the distance a bugle called a melancholy retreat.

He lifted the rose reverently to his lips.

"What have I in my hand?" he asked.

"A tin can," came the answer in an inanimate object."

"Exactly. Now, can any little boy or girl tell me how, with this tin can, it is possible to generate a surprising amount of speed and power, almost beyond control?"

La Crosse.—The La Crosse Chamber of Commerce sent a telegram to the chairman of the finance committee in the Senate asking that, in drafting the new war tax bill, protection be given against a decline in the value of merchandise at the end of the war.

SPANISH INFLUENZA--JUST GRIP

CAMOUFLAGED UNDER A NEW NAME

Most Authorities Now Agree That This Disease is Simply the Old-Fashioned Grip, the Same That Has Swept Over the World Times Without Number. Since 1831 the United States Has Had Five Epidemics.

The Last Epidemic in 1889-90 Came From Russia by Way of France and Was Given a French Name, La Grippe. This Time It Comes By Way of Spain.

ORIGIN OF THE DISEASE.

Spanish Influenza, which appeared in Spain in May, has swept over the world as a new epidemic, as far back as history runs. Hippocrates refers to an epidemic in 412 B. C., which is regarded by many to have been influenza. Every century has had its attacks. Beginning with 1831, this country has had five epidemics, the last in 1889-90.

THE SYMPTOMS.

Grip, or influenza as it is now called, usually begins with a chill followed by aching, feverishness and sometimes nausea and dizziness, and a general feeling of weakness and depression. The temperature is from 100 to 104, and the fever usually lasts from three to five days. The germs attack the mucous membrane, or lining of the air passages—nose, throat and bronchial tubes—there is usually a hard cough, especially bad at night, often times a sore throat or tonsillitis, and frequently all the appearances of a severe head cold.

THE TREATMENT.

Go to bed at the first symptoms—take a purgative, eat plenty of nourishing food, remain perfectly quiet and don't worry. Nature herself is the only "cure" for influenza, and will throw off the attack if only you conserve your strength. A little Quinine, Aspirin or Dover's Powder may be given by the physician's directions to allay the aching. Always call a doctor, since the chief danger of grip is in its weakening effect on the system, which allows complications to develop. These are chiefly pneumonia and bronchitis, sometimes inflammation of the middle ear, or heart affections. For these reasons, it is very important that the patient remain in bed until his strength returns—stay in bed at least two days or more after the fever has left you, or if you are over 50 or not strong, stay in bed four days or more, according to the severity of the attack.

EXTERNAL APPLICATIONS.

In order to stimulate the lining of the air passages to throw off the grippe germs, to aid in loosening the phlegm and keeping the air passages open, thus making the breathing easier, Vick's VapoRub will be found effective. Hot wet towels should be applied over the throat, chest and back between the shoulder blades to open the pores. Then VapoRub should be rubbed in over the parts until the skin is red, thickly and covered with two thicknesses of hot flannel cloths. Leave the clothing loose around the neck as the heat of the body liberates the ingredients in the form of vapors. These vapors, inhaled with each breath, carry the medication directly to the parts affected. At the same time VapoRub is absorbed through the skin, stimulating the skin, attracting the blood to the surface and thus aids in relieving the congestion within.

NO OCCASION FOR PANIC.

There is no occasion for panic—flu or grip has a very low percentage of fatalities—not over one death out of every four hundred cases, according to the N. C. Board of Health. The chief danger lies in complications arising, attacking principally patients in a run down condition—those who don't go to bed soon enough, or those who go out too early.

HOW TO AVOID THE DISEASE.

Evidence seems to prove that this is a germ disease, spread principally by human contact, chiefly through coughing, sneezing or spitting. So avoid persons having colds—which means avoiding crowds—a common thinking cups, roller towels, etc. Keep up your bodily strength by plenty of exercise in the open air, and good food.

KEEP FREE FROM COLDS.

Above all, avoid colds, as colds invite the lining of the air passages to render them much better breeding places for the germs.

Use Vick's VapoRub at the very first sign of a cold. For a head cold, melt a little VapoRub in a spoon and inhale the vapors, or better still, use VapoRub in a benzoin steam kettle. If this is not available, use an ordinary tesselite. Fill half-full of boiling water, put in half a teaspoon of VapoRub from time to time—keep the kettle just slowly boiling and inhale the steam arising.

GOVERNOR PHILIPP WRITES LETTER TO VOTERS OF STATE

The stump has been knocked from beneath the feet of the old time politicians, and in its place comes the appeal through the columns of the newspaper. First the "stump" was put into disarray by the Liberty Loan drive. Then came the "P.M." with the prohibition of public gatherings and the election day waits for no man and the ban has not been lifted, the political aspirants for office have written letters to the newspapers relative to the political situation.

Governor Philipp has a well-constructed address which is most interesting but with the consoling of the amount of white paper the newspapers can use. That feeling was published in the following synopsis is published. Everybody will be especially interested in what the governor of Wisconsin has to say on Wisconsin in the governor's letter.

There is no denying the fact that when war was declared many thousands of people in this state were not in favor of it. That feeling was confined to any particular class of people. I dare say that the same situation existed in other central western states. That feeling had been but little propaganda for war. In the summer, 1916, the national government was committed to anti-war policy and President Wilson was elected upon the slogan, "He kept us out of war."

The press of the state had said but little for war, particularly the Democratic press. It was quite unanimous for peace. In fact, it was common to find people who were in harmony with its own national platform and its candidate. The Republican press, or at least a good part of it, demanded a more vigorous foreign policy and only a few newspapers demanded an immediate declaration. In a state of two and one-half million people who had been in the habit of doing their own thinking, it is not surprising that they would immediately be of the same mind.

Speaking as your governor, the important problem that presented itself to me was how to secure the complete cooperation of all the people. If I were to follow the wishes of the historical or an element that permitted itself to be controlled by a few extremists, I would divide the people and could secure from very large and influential portion of the population only such cooperation as could be obtained by force. The results would have been attended that kind of an effort we can only conjecture. I had faith in the patriotism of the people and I felt confident that when the true story of the war and the great principles involved were made clear to them they would all join in a hearty support of the government and would make the state's contribution to the war a success. That policy did not suit extremists and it also gave an opportunity to an element of politicians to seize upon it as evidence that the government of this state was not a militant American.

I am not in the least concerned about the judgement of men who are influenced by political interest or who have the reputation of being always wrong. The policy which my administration pursued produced the results that we are now so justly proud of and when the political froth blows away, as it must, and the truth is stated, I am not in the least alarmed about the judgement of the people. Whatever the judgement of the reader will be, I know he will not dispute the statement that the truth is stated. War has won the proud reputation of being one of the first states in the Union in its attempt and intelligent cooperation in all matters demanded by the government and to the citizens who were misled by falsehoods and misrepresentations it is our privilege.

RESINOL ENDS YEARS OF UNSIGHTLY SKIN TROUBLE

Oct. 14.—"My face and neck broke out with small pimples which swelled and festered until they were like boils. When I opened them they filled again, and caused intense pain and loss of sleep. At last they were so disgusting I had to give up my position and could not go anywhere. After five years of this trouble, and having used many other preparations, I tried Resinol Ointment and Resinol Soap. The pain and itching was relieved at once, and when I had used 14 jars of Ointment and seven cakes of Soap I was cured. Now my skin is clear, and when I shave it is as soft as pink as a child's." to say that in this instance the truth has been completely overtaken by the falsehood.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE ISSUES FOOD BULLETIN

A bulletin regarding the practice of returning merchandise has been issued by the Chamber of Commerce at the request of the United States Food Administration. The bulletin follows:

To the Merchants of the County: The practice of returning merchandise to the manufacturer or wholesaler is a practice which is being discontinued as soon as possible. The bulletin follows:

To the Merchants of the County: The practice of returning merchandise to the manufacturer or wholesaler is a practice which is being discontinued as soon as possible. The bulletin follows:

"Under present conditions it is obvious that the transportation facilities of the country must be conserved in every practical way in order that the movement of troops, supplies, munitions, and ship-building materials may be unhindered. The return of merchandise to the manufacturer or wholesaler is a practice which is being discontinued as soon as possible. The bulletin follows:

"It appears that one of the burdens which can and should be moved is the unnecessary return of merchandise from merchants to wholesalers and manufacturers. This double transportation of goods to and from the purchaser is not only an essential need, but results in waste. To remedy this situation, therefore, retailers, wholesalers, and manufacturers in every industry are being earnestly requested to co-operate with each other for the elimination of all unjustifiable returns of merchandise. This request is not intended to interfere with the return of merchandise when there has been an error on the part of the seller as to price, style or quality, misinterpretation of order or unauthorized substitution. The merchandise is inferior or not up to sample. When goods are delivered 'as bought,' however they should not be returned to the seller. The change is to be returned because of substitution or error of any kind notice should be given by the purchaser within ten days after the receipt of the goods that return is intended. A time should of course be allowed for explanation or proffered adjustment."

It is the patriotic duty of every retail food distributor to rigidly comply with this request, to the end that conservation of the resources mentioned above, may be more complete. It is very necessary that the attention of every retail grocer be directed to this request.

Mrs. Morgan To Resign.
Madison.—Mrs. H. H. Morgan, Madison, the woman member of the Wisconsin Council of Defense, has asked Gov. Philipp to relieve her of her duties. It is understood that she has been offered another position that she feels she should accept as soon as she can be relieved from her present duties. When asked regarding the matter Gov. Philipp said that Mrs. Morgan had asked to be relieved. The impression gained at the executive office is that Mrs. Morgan's successor will be appointed within a day or two.

When the State Council of Defense was organized over a year ago, Mrs. Morgan was appointed to a position on the board and has been one of the most active and energetic members of the organization. Before the war Mrs. Morgan was much interested in agriculture and lived on the Morgan farm southeast of the city. She is herself a registered nurse, a graduate of Mercy Hospital, Chicago. It is understood that Mrs. Morgan's new work is a position with some large hospital. During the San Francisco earthquake Mrs. Morgan was a nurse in the Government service.

STOP YOUR CLOCK; DO NOT TURN HANDS BACK ON SUNDAY

"Don't turn back your clock on Oct. 28; stop it for an hour," is the advice given by jewelers here for the guidance of householders and business men on Oct. 27. When the nation switches back from sun time to standard time in case congress doesn't decide to continue on the present schedule.

Washington, Oct. 21.—President Wilson was "very much concerned about the attack" the inclusion of the older age limits in the new 13 to 46 draft "might make upon the economic life of the country." So much so that he himself "has dictated very largely the course to be pursued" in framing the regulations governing deferred classification of those engaged in essential occupations.

This was revealed by Provost Marshal General Crowder in his testimony before the house appropriations committee which was made public today. The general's testimony was given when the committee was considering the 2,247,658.64 deficiency appropriation bill, which the house is expected to pass this afternoon. One item in the measure provides $20,000,000 for the expenses of the new draft law, which the house is expected to pass this afternoon. One item in the measure provides $20,000,000 for the expenses of the new draft law, which the house is expected to pass this afternoon.

President Wilson has also personally approved a plan to station in the area of each district draft board three expert advisers to determine if the exemption, or deferred classification of those engaged in "various civil activities that are essential to be maintained in the national interest during the war." General Crowder informed Representative Swager, of Kentucky, chairman of the committee.

One of these expert advisers is to be designated by the department of agriculture and the third by the district draft board itself. "They will receive from the government," Crowder explained, "all the special studies that have been made respecting the shortage of man power—not military man power, but industrial and economic man power, and from time to time confer with the district board."

"They may study the difficulties of any particular line of employment and go before the district board with their conclusions as to what line of administration will meet the situation. The district board, advised in this way, is expected to conserve in a more effective way than heretofore the economic life of the country."

It was in response to a query by Representative John J. Eagen, of New Jersey, a member of the committee, as to "what provision is to be made, if any, to give deferred classification to men who are indispensable in banks or other financial institutions," that Gen. Crowder revealed the president's deep concern regarding the conservation of the economic life of the country. The district board, advised in this way, is expected to conserve in a more effective way than heretofore the economic life of the country."

Gen. Crowder recalled that "in order to have the way for exemptions of that kind," congress has been asked by him to amend the draft law by substituting the words "occupations and employment" for the words "industries including agriculture," which involved deferred classifications under the first draft.

Congress, however, adopted this form, "industries, occupations and employment," including agriculture. Gen. Crowder pointed out, "thus broadening the application of the draft law to employments outside of the field of industry and agriculture." "That would reach banking," he concluded, "and it would reach various other civil activities that are essential to be maintained in the national interest during the war. With that enlarged statutory authority, we have proceeded to frame regulations which will make it the duty of all of our draft boards to consider and pass upon applications for deferment on the grounds of these occupations and employments."

All people indebted to Dr. Welch can call at the office any afternoon from 2 to 5 or Wednesday and Saturday evenings until Nov. 1.

How About Your Danger Zone?

YOU'VE got it—every human being is born with it—your large intestine, or colon. It is a large tube—a reservoir or sewer—intended to collect waste matter and remove it from the body.

Plug it up with waste, neglect it, and you're sick on your feet. The waste matter stagnates, undergoes decay, fermentation and germ action. Dangerous poisons are produced, that can easily be absorbed and carried all over the body.

Allow constipation to become established, and you are liable to become definitely and miserably sick—and not on your feet either. You have broken Nature's laws.

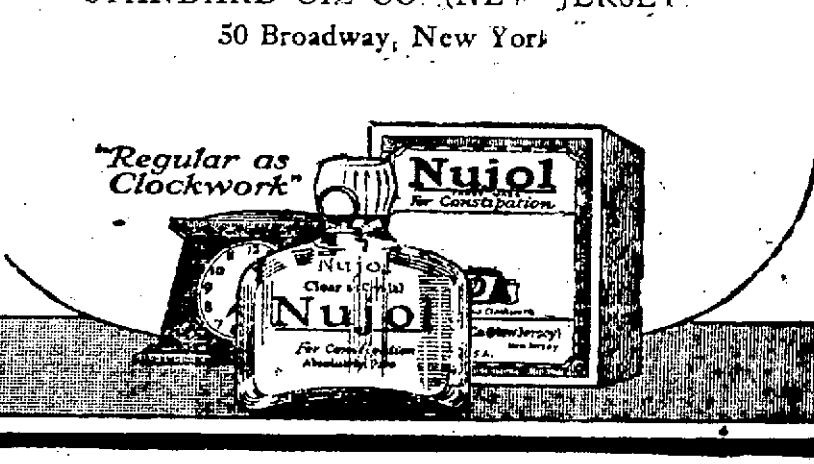

Better be kind to her. Keep the danger zone clean, with a regular bowel movement, and Nature will thank you, and pay you back in gold coin—health, good nature, and a feeling of eagerness for your daily task.

A large proportion of almost every form of sickness is caused or made worse by the poisons produced as a result of constipation.

Nujol has the approval of established medical practice, because it does not upset the system as do pills, castor oil and purgative mineral waters, salts, etc. It softens the contents of the colon, making them easy for the intestinal muscles to move at regular hours. Don't fight Nature. Help her. Nujol is health insurance for tens of thousands of American families today. Sold at drug stores everywhere.

Warning:
NUJOL is sold only in sealed bottles bearing the Nujol Trade Mark. Insist on Nujol. You may suffer from substitutes.

FOOTBALL SITUATION
HAS BECOME DOUBTFUL

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

Kansas City, Oct. 23.—Comment on the football situation at all Missouri valley conference schools is hedged with question marks. Many of the schools are under quarantine for influenza and while this has not interfered materially with football practice, it has served to further obscure the already clouded schedule and bids fair to necessitate the rearrangement or cancellation of some of the early November games.

There has been as yet no move for a definite rearrangement of the schedule, following the refusal of the army authorities to modify regulations of student army training corps units, although there have been such suggestions in favor of such action. It has been pointed out that a conference might also settle finally the other important question, whether freshmen are to be played on varsity teams. Action on this point has been taken by individual schools, but there has been no conference agreement.

At St. Louis, Missouri, and St. Louis universities announcement was made that the influenza quarantine probably would not be raised until the week of Nov. 3 at the earliest. Since a quarantine has been in effect for a much longer period, this has had a decidedly depressing effect. If the season can be opened in St. Louis on Nov. 2, St. Louis university on that date will meet the Great Lakes team and Tolla Miners will play Washington, Washington will play the Saint Francis Xavier Oct. 25, and a date canceled by Drury, and St. Louis university is trying for a game with the Haskell Indians at St. Louis Oct. 26, to fill another date canceled by Drury.

A frustrated writer suffered by Frank Peterson of Washington university, former Wisconsin center, probably will keep him out of the game all season. Thus and injuries suffered by other players serve to further dampen Washington's hopes.

The one encouraging feature of the outlook at all of the Missouri valley schools is that officers in charge of the student army training corps are everywhere emphasizing the importance of the game as army training. This backing probably will be extended to furtherance of inter-collegiate contests on which the interest in the game is largely based.

At Kansas university this week the drill officers commented especially on the importance of football practice in the development of men for recommendation to officers' training camps and they are keeping records of all the men on the athletic fields.

BATTILING NELSON
OUT OF DANGER

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

Chicago, Oct. 23.—Broad cast upon the waters" is returning much less than the proverbial thousand fold to Freddie Nelson, the "Durable Dane" for lightweight championship fame. Nelson, who is penniless through legal technicalities and suffering from Spanish influenza, will nevertheless have his hospital bill paid. The "Battling" appeared to friends to come to his aid. A check for $200, the gift of an organization he aided in the heyday of his boxing career, will cover the immediate expenses.

The veteran of the ring is declared to be out of danger and on the road to recovery.

Sport Snap Shots

(MORRIS MILLER)

Johnny Kilbane, featherweight champion of the world, wants it distinctly understood that he is King and will be King until he is dethroned by someone or someone knocks it off his head. Also Johnny wants it known he has no idea of handing the title to anyone.

Butchering Johnny says once more that he will do no real fighting in the ring until the Kaiser is lying with his back on the mat with his eyeballs rolled out.

Which facts—well boiled and strained, mean that all this talk about holding a tournament to pick a new feather king is all bunk.

To those of us who know J. Kilbane this isn't any news. I have seen the champ frequently since the war broke out and his attitude has been the same every time.

Now it happens that one of the prime instigators of this idea of picking a new champ is Johnny Dunn, manager of Eugene Cirioli, who was murdering featherweights in every clime and dashing their hopes.

That's odd, isn't it? Dunn discarded Kilbane, trained him for the title, handed him the years after he won the title. The two offered their services to Uncle Sam at about the same time. They were real pals until a few months before the war. Kilbane was assigned to teach boxing at Camp Sherman. Dunn was assigned to Camp Taylor. Johnny still helping the cause. Dunn is back in his home town of Cleveland, Ohio, working in the circulation department of a newspaper.

And in his off hours he is pulling wires to place a new featherweight in the limelight to dim Kilbane's name—to become an alleged featherweight champion.

Fine business, isn't it? While they were teaming it Kilbane placed implicit confidence in Dunn. Dunn did the taking and the match-making. Kilbane did the fighting—the part that brought Dunn his money. Dunn pulled off many queer pranks. Many of them hurt Kilbane, but Johnny stood by Dunn.

Johnny stood by Dunn. Dunn should forget this and drop all regard for Kilbane in his desire to get a money-maker—a used ticket—is unknown.

Some say Dunn and Kilbane disagreed after Johnny's scrap with Matt Brock in Cleveland a couple of years ago. But the break, if there was one, wasn't apparent then.

Another matter at hand. Kilbane will continue to be featherweight champ in the fans' eyes until he loses the title or gives it away.

And it's a good bet that Dunn will not get far with a "champion" until the present one lays down his gloves for good.

Dunn's new protégé is Kid Wolfe. He wants Wolfe to meet Alie Root, also a Clevelander, for the title.

They're both clever boys. Root's the better boy, I personally believe. But it's a cinch Kilbane could lick either one of them without raising his hair. But for Kilbane's heart either boy would be murdered if he met John in a title contest.

The whole wad of talk by Dunn is piffle.

The laugh of the season is with us. Notice was recently served on the Chicago National league club by the defunct San Francisco club of the one sum of $4,500 or its equivalent in forfeiting immediately all of the Chicago clubs rights and title to the service of Charley Pick, who played second base for the Cubs in the recent world's series, will expire.

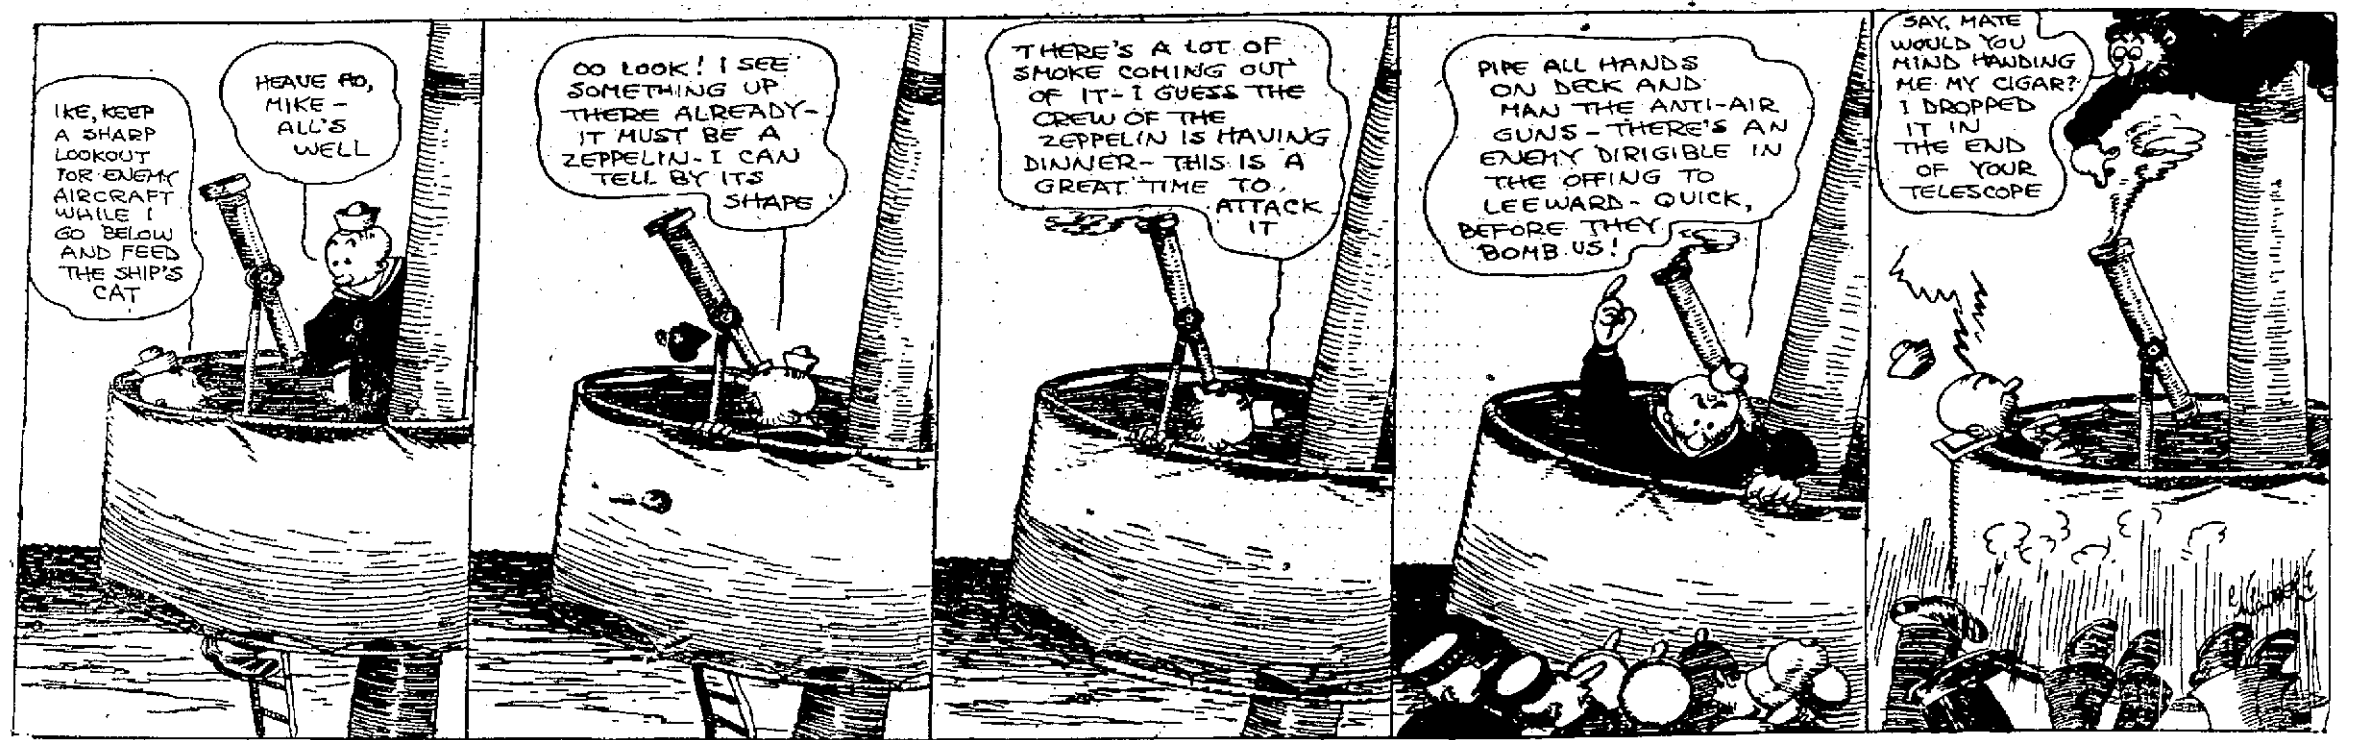

The Cubs took Pick after the fall. The Coast league died a natural death, paid his salary from that time up to Sept. 1. They created Pick "white," to say the least. But of course, you can't blame the Cubs for trying to collect a few thousand dollars.

HEARD FROM OUR SOLDIERS AND SAILORS

Sergeant L. C. Bailey, 307, Field Signal Battalion, writes his father, Fred J. Bailey, formerly of Janesville, from France, on the date of September 25, telling of his experience as a mustard gas patient in a Red Cross hospital, as follows:

"Since I wrote you last I have been traveling around the country some and ran into a little mustard gas and am taking life easy in a hospital. As far as I can see, the only thing the matter with me is burns under each arm. I hope to be all right in a few days. I am in a room with three good fellows and we manage to have a good time, although there isn't much to do. We have movies in the mess hall every night, with good 1918 productions. Some uniforms came today and we hope to get out a little soon. I am feeling very well.

On the date of Oct. 2, Sergeant Bailey wrote from Royat: "Am still in the hospital, but have been transferred to another room. There are five of us in a small room of a class hotel. We have steam heat, private bath, hot and cold water, electric lights. They have just brought a pair of heavy Pequot linen sheets for us, and I am sitting on my bunk looking thru French windows over a spacious veranda, at a beautiful mountain scene of southern France. The room is lined with flower boxes and box-wood trees in tubs. The sun is shining from a beautiful sky on the hills which surround the city of Clermont. A short distance away this surrounding seems to go on last long, but the doctor says gas cases are not dismissed for three months.

Shirley, Johnson and Gelsky are the three royal scouts rooming with me and we have great times together. We have a session of Euchre every day. The Red Cross certainly does wonderful work here. They come often with tobacco, handkerchiefs, writing paper, chocolate and other articles of comfort. I received a sweater from them today and it is comfortable, because the weather is a little cool.

I am expecting mail from home soon. I am feeling good and the burns under my arms are much better. Address as before, for mail will be forwarded to me.

Love to all.

"We have been on the go for the last two months during our last drive. We had the Boches going so fast that I thought they were never going to stop. I was nearly necked up all out keeping up with them. I suppose you have read in the papers the large amount of ground covered by the thirty-second division. We made a good record for ourselves here.

"The towns and fields are all torn up with shell holes. Some of the prisoners we got through here said they had never seen anything like this. We are just so contrary as not to give up until they are all in."

"We are feeling fine and camped in a small woods a little way in back of the line for several days. Every day. Have not heard from Captain Caldwell for some time and have not seen him for several days. I was lying in my tent last Saturday and an order came to take command of the Company G of my old regiment, so I am in the battalion now and not with the boys of Company M nearly as every day. We were in the big drive and sure put the Boche on the run, but we are getting a rest now.

"The old thirty-second division made a name for itself, and I would not have missed it for a good deal. We have had a good rest and are ready for another session with the Boche. I have not killed a German in a hand-to-hand fight yet, but I am still in hopes. During the drive we advanced so fast that they could not keep the artillery up and ammunition ran out in several companies, but the boys put their bayonets and walking right through the artillery and machine gun fire and killed the enemy with bayonets and turned their own machine guns around, heading the little messengers of sudden death over the heads of the Boche. I have never seen the pride an officer takes in command of men of that caliber. General March announced a few days ago that in another year we would have several divisions of the army in France, enough to deliver a crushing blow that would paralyze Germany forever. It can't come any too quick for me, and I think I can never know the top of the boys at the time.

From William Brookhams.

"We are located in the biggest camp I ever saw. Camp Grant is not in it with this place. It is a rest camp, where they send you from the port where you land. Here we clean up, wash all our clothes and get in our class shape. The trip over was exciting all the time. There was a canteen service in the transport where we could buy crackers, candy, gum and tobacco.

"When we reached the port we could see the Stars and Stripes floating from every place and the boys were wild. We received hot coffee and crackers from the Red Cross, and by the way I cannot praise this organization enough. It is the soldiers' best friend.

HEARD FROM OUR SOLDIERS AND SAILORS

L. C. Bailey.

Sergeant L. C. Bailey, 307, Field Signal Battalion, writes his father, Fred J. Bailey, formerly of Janesville, from France, on the date of September 25, telling of his experience as a mustard gas patient in a Red Cross hospital, as follows:

"Since I wrote you last I have been traveling around the country some and ran into a little mustard gas and am taking life easy in a hospital. As far as I can see, the only thing the matter with me is burns under each arm. I hope to be all right in a few days. I am in a room with three good fellows and we manage to have a good time, although there isn't much to do. We have movies in the mess hall every night, with good 1918 productions. Some uniforms came today and we hope to get out a little soon. I am feeling very well.

On the date of Oct. 2, Sergeant Bailey wrote from Royat: "Am still in the hospital, but have been transferred to another room. There are five of us in a small room of a class hotel. We have steam heat, private bath, hot and cold water, electric lights. They have just brought a pair of heavy Pequot linen sheets for us, and I am sitting on my bunk looking thru French windows over a spacious veranda, at a beautiful mountain scene of southern France. The room is lined with flower boxes and box-wood trees in tubs. The sun is shining from a beautiful sky on the hills which surround the city of Clermont. A short distance away this surrounding seems to go on last long, but the doctor says gas cases are not dismissed for three months.

Shirley, Johnson and Gelsky are the three royal scouts rooming with me and we have great times together. We have a session of Euchre every day. The Red Cross certainly does wonderful work here. They come often with tobacco, handkerchiefs, writing paper, chocolate and other articles of comfort. I received a sweater from them today and it is comfortable, because the weather is a little cool.

I am expecting mail from home soon. I am feeling good and the burns under my arms are much better. Address as before, for mail will be forwarded to me.

Love to all.

Les.

From Harold Pelton.

"We have been on the go for the last two months during our last drive. We had the Boches going so fast that I thought they were never going to stop. I was nearly necked up all out keeping up with them. I suppose you have read in the papers the large amount of ground covered by the thirty-second division. We made a good record for ourselves here.

"The towns and fields are all torn up with shell holes. Some of the prisoners we got through here said they had never seen anything like this. We are just so contrary as not to give up until they are all in."

"We are feeling fine and camped in a small woods a little way in back of the line for several days. Every day. Have not heard from Captain Caldwell for some time and have not seen him for several days. I was lying in my tent last Saturday and an order came to take command of the Company G of my old regiment, so I am in the battalion now and not with the boys of Company M nearly as every day. We were in the big drive and sure put the Boche on the run, but we are getting a rest now.

"We have moved again and are now in a village that hasn't been blown to pieces by artillery. It sure seems good to get away from the desolation of the country that was occupied by the Boche.

"The old thirty-second division made a name for itself, and I would not have missed it for a good deal. We have had a good rest and are ready for another session with the Boche. I have not killed a German in a hand-to-hand fight yet, but I am still in hopes. During the drive we advanced so fast that they could not keep the artillery up and ammunition ran out in several companies, but the boys put their bayonets and walking right through the artillery and machine gun fire and killed the enemy with bayonets and turned their own machine guns around, heading the little messengers of sudden death over the heads of the Boche. I have never seen the pride an officer takes in command of men of that caliber. General March announced a few days ago that in another year we would have several divisions of the army in France, enough to deliver a crushing blow that would paralyze Germany forever. It can't come any too quick for me, and I think I can never know the top of the boys at the time.

"I am in command of Company G and have men from nearly every state in the Union. Your son, HAROLD."

The following letter was received by Mrs. George Irwin from her grandson, Clifford L. Sadler somewhere in France, Sept. 8, 1918.

The following letter was received by Mr. and Mrs. S. O. Bullis from their son Clifford somewhere in France.

Somewhere in France, Sept. 30, 1918:

We are quartered in an old French town and the nights are fine. There is an old house here that is seven hundred years old. It has all kinds of trees around it and there are some caves in the hill where it is built. I went to church this morning and I intend to go again this evening. We saw some fine sights in England. The country is as level as the door steps at home and is full of grapes. We went out to a vineyard and had all the grapes we could eat. It is hard to understand the people but they sure treat us fine. There are all kinds of gardens growing now and they are planting some every day so you see it is not very cold. We are quartered in the main part of the town so we see all there are here in the day time. There are not many as they are all picking grapes. We can't buy bread, but we can buy anything else if we have the money.

Your son, Clifford Bullis.
